

Editorial

Welcome to the second edition of the Pacific Rim Property Research Journal to be published by Taylor & Francis.

As agreed between the Pacific Rim Real Estate Society and Taylor & Francis, the Journal transitioned to an online, electronic paper submission process from June 2015.

It is hoped to publish three editions of the Journal in 2015 and submission of papers online for consideration for publication is strongly encouraged.

Having completed the transfer to Taylor & Francis, the redesign of the Journal cover and the transition to online paper submission, the focus will now move to progressively refreshing the panel of referees over the balance of 2015.

Consistent with the Editorial Policy that each issue attempt to reflect a diversity of property topics, this edition of the Journal includes an assessment of house price determinants in Korea, linkages in Asian REIT markets before, during and after the Global Financial Crisis and foreclosure discounts on Malaysian apartments and an analysis of the impact of news stories on African valuers and land administration reform in Lagos, Nigeria together with a review of the design and development of a mobile application for initiating feasibility analysis, providing an eclectic range of reading.

Professor David Parker
Editor

Pacific Rim Property Research Journal
David.Parker@unisa.edu.au